American Audiology Board of Intraoperative Monitoring

The American Audiology Board of Intraoperative Monitoring (AABIOM) is recognized by the American Speech-Language-Association (ASHA) as a legally independent non-profit subspecialty entity in the profession of audiology. The AABIOM serves to ensure the provision of clinical intraoperative monitoring and interpretation services (IOM) to referring surgeons, health care facilities and their respective patients, by licensed and competent audiologists who demonstrate a broad fund of knowledge, advanced clinical training and particular clinical expertise in the subspecialty field of IOM. As such, the AABIOM directs and oversees a professional level subspecialty credentialing process, the end goal of which is specialty board recognition certifying an audiologist as having met specific educational, experiential and clinical competency standards.

Please consider contributing financial support to the American Audiology Board of Intraoperative Monitoring whose important efforts provide a path for professional board-certification in intraoperative monitoring. Your financial contribution will go toward sustaining the efforts of the credentialing process of the AABIOM in assuring that the audiologist who has achieved the BCS-IOM designator possesses specialized education, training and experience beyond that required for entry into the general profession (e.g., Ph.D., Au.D.) as well as the Certificate of Clinical Competence in Audiology [CCC-A]. Board certified audiologists in IOM possess an advanced understanding in this sub-specialty in audiology. They have met rigorous educational, practice and examination requirements and are required to maintain their board certification by demonstration of ongoing continuing education, ethical professional standing and valid licensure to practice.
